SPEAKER COLFAX AND THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.
Schuyler Colfax and party arrived in New York Sept. 23d, having made the round trip in four months. The Herald says:
The main object of the visit of Mr. Colfax and his companions was to ascertain if the resources and status of the country demanded at the early completion of the Pacific Railroad. Governor Briggs, with whom our reporter conversed, is decided in his conviction that the early completion of the work is loudly demanded, and his opinions are shared by the entire party. The development of wealth to the country attendant on this event it is asserted will be of the most astonishing character. The Pacific end of the road is being pushed over with marked energy and success over the east [west] side of the Sierra Nevada. The ridge, which is seven thousand feet high, will soon be worked through, and the rest of the road is asserted to be as easy of construction as a road on the New York Central line.

THE NEWSPAPER.
Take the most thorough man of the world of our acquaintance—the man most perfectly versed in what goes on in all conditions and ranks of life—and ask you what would he be without his newspaper? By what possible machinery could he learn, as he sits at his breakfast, the last news from China, of the last ballet at Paris, the state of the funds at San Francisco, the winner at Newmarket, the pantomime at the Olympic, and the encyclical of the Pope? Without my newspaper, life would narrow itself to the small limits of my personal experience, and humanity be compressed into the ten or fifteen people I met with. As for the advertisements, I regard them as the mirror of the age. Show me but one page of the "wants" of any country, and I engage myself to give a sketch of the current civilization of the period. What glimpses of rose interiors do we gain by those brief paragraphs. How full of suggestions they are! (Lord Brougham.)

THURSDAY, OCT. 23, 1890.
The Salt Lake House, to convey to Camp Douglas or elsewhere citizens of Salt Lake City, invited by the committee to take part in the reception tendered by his friends to General Connor on his arrival to-day.

NOTICE!
Omnibuses will be in waiting at precisely eight (8) o'clock a. m., in front of the Salt Lake House, to convey to Camp Douglas or elsewhere citizens of Salt Lake City, invited by the committee to take part in the reception tendered by his friends to General Connor on his arrival to-day.

By Request.

Gen. Connor and his Transcendents!

In our issue of Monday last we had the pleasure of publishing a very interesting letter from our Fort Laramie correspondent, detailing, to some extent, the expedition of General Connor against the wild red-men of the plains. We had looked with pleasing anticipation to the receipt of news from the seat of Indian warfare, and we were not disappointed. We knew, notwithstanding the shillings of sickly sentimentalists about the "wrongs of the red-man"—the declamations of the over-zealous advocates of "total extermination"—and the growlings of the little cur that can only bark when a whole pack of them get together, that the man who had been selected to bring to a close the Indian difficulties would do so, if left to pursue his own line of policy, or perish in the attempt.

The Telegraph of Tuesday last very wisely remarked that "Firmness, forbearance, and justice are requisite in dealing with the Indians." The man who possesses the first of these, who knows how and when to manifest the second, and whose actions are based on the third, coupled with judgment and military skill, is the only man to whom should be allotted so important a task as that of maintaining the rights of whites and reds, keeping open the great overland route across the plains, and preventing each class from infringing upon the rights of the other. And notwithstanding all that has been said and written against him by a party clique west; by men who, having disgraced the uniform of their country with which they ought never to have been vested, resigned to avoid disgrace; by lawless pigmyists who have an intuitive hatred of a law-abiding man, and by their toadying and bribed sympathizers, Gen. Connor is, emphatically, the man for that position.

In a not very remote issue of the Telegraph, an article was republished from the Daily Reese River Reveille, animadverting in no very measured tones upon the brave Soldier whose name stands at the head of this article, and denying that he is a "military man." He is charged with having "always shown a deadly enmity to the citizens of Utah." Where, when, or in what has this "deadly enmity" been manifested? Will the Reveille or Telegraph be kind enough to inform us? We profess our inability to discover it, and challenge its proof. We acknowledge that he is outspoken in his sentiments against the wholesale murders, robberies, and vice practiced in Utah under the polluting doctrines of "killing men to save their souls." "Taking the Lord's property from the Gentiles for the benefit of his salute," and "celestial marriage," and so is every loyal and true man—every "true soldier." Was the revered Washington a "true soldier"? Would he, think you, have hesitated to denounce so infamous and vile a concatenation of hell-born dogmas? Would General Connor have shown himself to be what every "true soldier" is—a patriot—had he known of the existence of such crimes as murder, robbery and bigamy, being practiced systematically in the very face of the constitution and laws he had sworn to support, unless he had used his voice and his influence to check them? And in what else has he shown "enmity"? Most assuredly, not to the people; he has been their friend. True, he has permitted apostates from the Brighamite hierarchy, for whose property and blood the accused minions of the Danite chief have hungered and thirsted, to locate themselves on the government reserve, and under theegis of military protection, until they were able to migrate to localities where the bloodhounds of Brigham could not track them; and every "true soldier"—every loyal man has applauded his conduct.

"General Connor is a politician, and not a military man." So says the Reveille, and the statement is echoed by the Telegraph. Perhaps the learned editors have some particular standard by which they test military ability that we do not possess. In such a case, we cannot pretend to determine for them. But if our conception of what constitutes "military ability" be but approximately correct, General Connor is such. We need not detail here the services rendered the country by his troops—the readers of the Territorial papers are already acquainted with them. As to their efficiency, the fact that it is asserted by competent judges in every place where they have been, that they are unequalled, is a sufficient answer. That the General is a politician is an old story, and he is not a "true soldier" is a new one. That he wishes to control the people evinced a desire to control the "morals or religion of the people of Utah" farther than the law itself denounces them? Let the Mormons themselves respond.

The article in question states that "As a commander against the Indians east of the Rocky Mountains, he seems to have done nothing but promise and threaten." We have no disposition to throw any particular blame on the Reveille for this statement; we would rather attribute ignorance of the facts in the case, particularly as it only asserts that "he seems to have done nothing." At the time when the article was written, it was not generally known that the General had less than one-fourth the force promised him to operate with, and that for even the feeble force he had, there was neither a sufficiency of supplies nor transportation. The results of his campaign, however, are such as effectually answer all arguments against his military ability or inactivity, and stamp his character as one of the bravest, most heroic, most able and effective commanders that America has ever produced for Indian warfare. In support of this we, without any egotism, would respectfully refer the Reveille to our editorial of Sept. 30th, on "The Indian Campaign," and also to a telegram published in the Vedette of same date from Major-General Dodge to A. D. Richardson, Esq., in which, alluding to General Connor's fight on Powder River, he pronounced them "the most brilliant in the history of Indian warfare."

Is it not strange, friend Reveille, that one who is "not a military man" should achieve victories more brilliant than some of our "true soldiers," whom you would unhesitatingly pronounce to be such? Is it not strange that the man who, though "he was powerful in the primaries, and a good street contractor," is only "a politician," should acquire honors never attained by your "West-Pointers who take pride in being true soldiers," and that, too, with a weaker force and under more adverse circumstances than they had, and failed to as effectually employ? But if these evidences in his favor are insufficient, we again refer you to the letter of our Fort Laramie correspondent, published in the Vedette of the 24th, from which you may learn that "the results of the campaign of only sixty-five days, are, briefly: About four hundred Indians put hors de combat, the capture of six hundred head of stock, and the entire destruction of two hundred lodges with all the paraphernalia of Indian home-life—with a loss of only twelve men killed and fifteen wounded, on our side;" and if justice and truth be your object, you will take as much pains to defend him now the truth is known, as you did to defame him when it was veiled in obscurity.

BY PACIFIC TELEGRAPH.

(SPECIAL TO THE DAILY UNION VEDETTE.)

Fort Laramie, Oct. 23.
On the night of the 23d, Indians appeared on the Overland route near Cottonwood Springs, and drove the mail coach into the post at that place; the same day, they attacked a portion of the Garrison at Alkali and drove them into that post; on the 23d, they attacked and burned two trains near the latter place, killing three men; at the same time they destroyed several hundred feet of telegraph wire. Shortly afterwards, Col. Fleming, with a detachment of the 6th West Virginia cavalry, attacked them, losing two men. The Indian loss is not reported.

Gen. Winton is taking vigorous measures to punish the savages; the line is already repaired; the Indians having been driven off the road, and the road will be kept open and the line of telegraph up. Full reports from all points of the district attacked, are not yet received. Eight Indians have thus far been reported killed, they were killed near Valley Station, about one hundred miles west of Alkali; the returning Powder River expedition is near Ft. Sedgwick, and the Indians attacked the road from 100 to 150 miles on each side of the returning column.

adopted a desire to control the "morals or religion of the people of Utah" farther than the law itself denounces them? Let the Mormons themselves respond.

The hostile attitude toward each other in some parts of South Carolina, of the whites and blacks, is represented as assuming a phase threatening serious results, and unless the difficulties are speedily adjusted. Especially is this the case along portions of the coast and upon the sea island, where negroes have been established on abandoned plantations, subject to control of officers of the Freedmen's Bureau. Planters, who now that the rebellion is crushed, are anxious to regain possession of these lands, and allege that the freedmen are allowing them to go to ruin, and don't raise enough for their own maintenance, and are actually neglecting preparations for the next year's crop, and are giving up possession. While South Carolinians are considerably incensed against the Freedmen's Bureau officials, whom they charge with encouraging negroes in their assumption; it is principally with the object of endeavoring to adjust these difficulties that Gen. Howard, commander of the Freedmen's Bureau, is now on his way to S. C. The General arrived at Charleston on Tuesday last, by overland route from Raleigh, N. C., and left the next day for Columbia, to have an interview with Gov. Perry. It is expected that on his return to Charleston he will deliver an address to the citizens.

A disastrous fire, attended with loss of life, occurred at Charleston, last Wednesday. It was in the business part of the city, and destroyed several mercantile manufacturing establishments and the Courier newspaper office; the loss is estimated at $100,000. Thirty or forty persons were buried in the ruins; fifteen to twenty of whom, it is thought were instantly killed; the others were extricated in a dreadfully injured and suffering condition.

The Herald's Raleigh correspondent says, the ordinance repudiating the rebel debt was passed by the N. C. State Convention, by a vote of 84 to 12. The ordinance for the purpose of raising a militia force, to suppress outlaws, was also passed. The convention adjourned on Thursday last, to meet again on the fifteenth of next May. Gov. Holden, and Jonathan Worth, the present State Treasurer, were both out to-day; as candidates for Governor. Worth will be supported by the secession element, but he is a strong Union man, and in the legislature of '90 voted against the calling a convention to take the State out of the Union. Lewis Haynes, private secretary to Gov. Holden, has resigned and runs for Congress in Randolph district, on the Worth ticket. The fact that all the secessionists oppose Holden, will probably unite the true Union men to vote on him and elect him.

New York, Oct. 22.

To-morrow, the republican government of Mexico opens an agency 55 Broadway, and places in the market, a loan of thirty million dollars, with interest, payable in gold. The agents are John W. Cortez and Co., and J. N. Liff, financial agent of the republic. A large sum has, it is said, already been pledged; the bonds will be ready for delivery to-morrow, and are in sums of fifty, one hundred, five hundred and one thousand dollars, payable twenty years from date, October 1st, 1895, bear seven per cent. interest, payable semi-annually, principal in interest payable in gold, payment to be secured by the pledge of faith of the Republic and States of Tamaulipas and San Luis Potosi, by special pledge, having the effect of a national mortgage of five million acres of agricultural and half a million acres of mineral land in the States above named. The agricultural lands pledged are estimated at the value of from one to five dollars per acre, and the mineral lands at one hundred dollars per acre, at Government price.

ASSESSOR'S REPORT.—From the report of Mr. Thos. Foye, County Assessor, we derive the following notes:
Assessment of Boise County for the year 1885. Three millions one hundred and forty-seven thousand eight hundred and forty-two dollars, ($3,147,842). Number of quartz mills crushing rock—three, with twenty-two stamps, with sufficient power to work forty stamps. Mills in course of construction, two, viz, the Cobden and Astor. The first named will be completed in a few weeks with a battery of twenty-five stamps. The Astor company are busily engaged in the manufacture of brick for their mill. Their machinery has not arrived yet.—Idaho World.

LIEUT. COL. JOHNS expects to muster his command at Green River, on Tuesday next, so says a letter received yesterday. The march is being made in excellent time. The men are all in good health and the best of spirits.
